Fifty broadcast companies from around the state are committed to come. Students are invited to bring their audio and video work for critiques from the pros. Bring resumes, too, to apply for internships. NBSers are also needed to help set up the booths for exhibitors.

The students' advice: Try to make at least one national convention while you're at Texas State.

Officer elections are coming up. Dr. Niekamp explained the online voting procedure, and encouraged people to run for office for the coming school year. Results expected to be announced in April.
